Are You Registered to Vote?

National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to refresh your registration status. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail. Depending on where you'll be on Election Day, skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring ID to vote, imposing strict voter ID requirements, declaring certain forms of ID unacceptable, removing voting rights of felons, instituting restrictions on registration, making it harder to register at the polls, changing in-person voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day, Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,

Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Opportunity to make sure you're all set to vote. Even if you've voted previously with no trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state offers them here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include strict identification requirements, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election — including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include voter registration deadlines, requiring voter ID, ID requirements to vote absentee, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member. Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to check your registration.

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,

Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure your voting information is up-to-date.

Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does [here].

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to check your registration status and make sure you can vote on Election Day. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.
2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.
3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail. Depending on where you will be on Election Day, skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.
4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include voter ID requirements, limits on early voting, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.
5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register. Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure you're ready. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring ID for early voting, voter registration, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... Trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure your information is up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include restrictions on who can vote, limits on in-person early voting, and changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure you're registered and informed. Here are some tips to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring an ID to vote, per state law or executive order, and changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to do one of the most important things you can do for your community.

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring voter ID to vote, and some states are implementing new policies that change in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ...(truncated)

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible, Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,

Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail. Depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible, Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure your information is up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring identification to vote, new restrictions on early voting, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure your information is correct. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring voters to show government-issued photo ID, presenting voter registration documents at the polls, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure your information is up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,

Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,

Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election — including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.
2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.
3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.
4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.
5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure you're ready to vote. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include voter ID requirements, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to review your current voting status. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.
2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.
3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.
4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include voter ID laws that require government-issued photo ID, as well as changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.
5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.
2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.
3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.
4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.
5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure you're ready. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.
2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.
3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.
4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring identification in order to vote, new restrictions on early voting, and limitations on absentee voting. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.
5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election – including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to check your registration status and polling place. It’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include voter ID requirements when voting, restrictions on early voting, and changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,

Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to get your information up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring a photo ID, establishing new voter registration deadlines, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure your voter registration and voting information is up to date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring voters to present specific forms of ID in order to vote, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,

Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election— including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure your information is up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure you're registered to vote. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include voter registration restrictions, stricter voter ID requirements, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state offers here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ...) ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member. Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to check your info:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring an ID to vote, although many states offer a voter ID card. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible, Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to...

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does... here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does [here].

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure your information is up-to-date and accurate. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring voters to show ID at the polls, limits on early voting, changed absentee voting laws, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.
2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.
3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.
4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.
5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election — including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to check your voter registration status.

Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include voter ID requirements, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.
2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.
3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.
4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.
5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election – including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to check on your registration status and make sure you have the information you need. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ID requirements, and changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail. Depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,

Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure your voter information is up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring ID for voting, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to update your information... It's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include voter identification requirements, certain types of acceptable forms of photo ID, voter registration deadlines, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.
2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.
3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.
4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.
5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure your information is up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include restrictions on who can vote, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does [here].

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered.
   - If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.
2. Find your polling place.
   - It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.
3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day.
   - Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does [here] (https://www.sos.state.nv.us/voter/frequentlyaskedquestions/voterID.html).
4. Check voter ID laws in your state.
   - According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.
5. Know your rights.
   - You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible, Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,

Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to check on your voting status. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring identification at the polls, making it more difficult to vote in person, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible, Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure your information is up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include限制 voting access, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure your information is up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring ID at the polls, access restrictions, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election – including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member. Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure you're ready. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring proof of identification, and changing in-person voting requirements, among other changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8. United Invincible, Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member. Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible, Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election — including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to get registered. If you have trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,

Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election — including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to …

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include …

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member. Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election — including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure you're prepared. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring a form of ID to vote, restricting where you can get that ID, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to check your registration status and make sure you're ready to vote. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include restrictions on where you can get an ID, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to...
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure you're registered, find your polling place, and vote early, absentee, or by mail. Just in case of any trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include restrictions on early voting and in-person registration, tougher requirements for voting with a military ID, some changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.
2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.
3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.
4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.
5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure your information is up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring voters to show ID at the polls to cast a ballot, requiring voters to show ID at the polls to receive a ballot, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.
2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.
3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.
4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.
5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered.
   If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place.
   It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state offers them here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure your information is up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include voter ID requirements, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

1. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

2. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

3. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring photo ID, ID with expired registration, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

4. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure you're registered to vote.

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include voter ID requirements, penalties for failure to present proper ID, restrictions on early voting, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election— including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election— including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure your information is accurate. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring photo identification, voter registration requirements, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.
2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.
3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.
4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.
5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
Posted On: Sep 22, 2016 (12:56:54)

National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure your voter registration information is up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ID requirements for first-time voters, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election — including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to...

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,

Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member. Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered
   If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place
   It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state
   According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights
   You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election — including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to check your registration status and verify your information. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include voter ID requirements, restrictions on registration, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does [here].

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.
2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.
3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.
4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.
5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure your information is accurate and up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ID-only requirements, photo ID, voter ID laws in place for future elections, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,

Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure you’re ready. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to know where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring ID and limiting the types of ID you can use, limiting where you can vote, changing in-person registration procedures, limiting early voting, changing in-person registration procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure your registration information is up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state offers voting early, absentee, or by mail here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring voter ID at polling places, making it harder to vote if you can't get a voter ID, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to recheck your status. If you're in trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.
2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.
3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.
4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring voter ID at the polls, changing in-person registration procedures, changing early voting procedures, and in-person voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.
5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure your information is up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring citizens to present photo IDs in order to vote, and can cause delays and confusion. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election – including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,

Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
Posted On: Sep 22, 2016 (12:56:54)

National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election — including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to review and update your voter registration information. If you experience any trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include voter ID requirements, waiting periods, voter challenges, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election — including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ensure your vote counts.

Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

1. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

2. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

3. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring ID at the polls, new requirements for absentee ballots, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

4. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered.
   If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place.
   It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day.
   Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state.
   According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights.
   You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.
2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.
3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.
4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.
5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,

Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to double-check that you're ready. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring photo identification, new restrictions on who can register to vote, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include long waiting lines, purging of voters, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL–CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election— including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure you're prepared. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include those that identify citizens as citizens, who cannot vote unless they have proper identification, and some states have made it more difficult to get on the rolls. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure your information is up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered.
   If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place.
   It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day.
   Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state.
   According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include restrictions on who can vote, voter cards, and changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights.
   You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election— including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to confirm your registration status. If you’re in doubt, it’s better to be safe than sorry. In a democracy, everyone’s vote counts. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail. Depending on where you’ll be on Election Day, skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring a photo ID, voter registration deadlines, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure you're ready to vote. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include restrictions on who can vote, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure you're prepared to vote. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include more stringent ID requirements, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.
2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.
3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.
4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.
5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does [here].

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

6. Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to...trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ...changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to...trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include...changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure your information is current. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include photo ID requirements, voter ID laws for those getting mail-in ballots, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ensure you're prepared. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail. Depending on where you'll be on Election Day, skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include restrictions on who can vote, changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election — including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure you have the information you need to vote. Here are five things to consider:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring a specific type of ID, ID being required to vote even for absentee ballots, and restrictions on early voting and voting centers. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible, Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election — including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure you’re voted in. If you face any trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include voter ID requirements, disenfranchisement of millions of voters, and making it harder to vote early. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to make sure your registration and voting information stays up to date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring photo ID in order to vote, making it harder to register, and changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to...

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include...

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible, Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you’re already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election— including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to check your registration status, update your information, and be sure you know where and how you’ll vote. If you encounter any trouble, it’s important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here’s a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you’re registered. If you’ve recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it’s always better if you can take care of these details before you’re in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It’s critical to find out where you’ll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn’t change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you’ll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include requiring IDs that indicate voter’s age, changing the types of IDs acceptable, imposing restrictions on voter registration, implementing restrictions on registration, making changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let’s make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to ... trouble, it's important to verify your information to make sure it remains up-to-date. Here's a quick checklist to help:

1. Make sure you're registered. If you've recently moved, make sure you update your information. Some states offer same-day voter registration, but it's always better if you can take care of these details before you're in the voting booth.

2. Find your polling place. It's critical to find out where you'll vote before election day, and check to make sure it didn't change from where you voted in the primary. Make sure you know the hours of your polling place, too.

3. Vote early, absentee, or by mail, depending on where you'll be on Election Day. Skip the lines on voting day and avoid any hassles by voting early, absentee or by mail. Not all states offer these options, so find out if your state does here.

4. Check voter ID laws in your state. According to the ACLU, 17 states will have new voter ID laws in effect this November. These types of laws include ... changes in early voting procedures, and more. Be prepared with proper identification if your state requires it.

5. Know your rights. You are entitled to assistance in the voting booth if you need it. Ask the volunteers at your polling place for help.

Remember: your vote is your voice, so let's make sure the voices of working people are heard on Election Day: Tuesday, November 8.

United Invincible,
Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO

© Copyright 2020, TWU Local 513. This information may not be republished without express consent.
National Voter Registration Day is Tuesday, September 27! Will you celebrate by registering to vote? If you're already registered, you can help a friend, family member, or coworker register.

Election 2016 is fast approaching, and we want to make sure union members and families are ready. So much is at stake in this election - including your fundamental rights as a union member.

Election laws, polling locations, and deadlines can change. So National Voter Registration Day is a great opportunity to...